Indian Exhibition Industry Association's newsroom communique

IEIA President's Hello!

Dear Industry Colleagues,

My heartiest wishes to all on the 70th Independence Day!

I am pleased to share with you that IEIA has recently launched two new Membership Categories- 'Young Members' and 'Auxiliary Members', for individuals to join this wonderful platform of IEIA.

The introduction of these new categories comes as an initiative to give a fresh perspective to our Industry by facilitating a closer connect amongst the professionals working or associated with this industry or even who are wishing to be in this vibrant industry.

We are inviting students, who are looking at building their careers in this industry and young professionals already working in the industry, who are under the age of 35 years, to join IEIA as 'Young Members' and be closely connected with each other and explore great career avenues as well as learning opportunities for themselves.

Auxiliary Membership is open to all freelancers, trainers and even senior members retired from the industry; who

Despite global uncertainty, UFI Report indicates trade show industry thriving

Even in the current tumultuous times in several countries worldwide, the overall worldwide exhibition industry expects continued growth in turnover for the coming year, according to the recently released 17th Global Exhibition Barometer. However, a significant level of uncertainty is forecast for the first half of 2017 in Asia, Middle East and Africa. In addition, with the heightened level of random violent incidents, 60 percent of companies surveyed said they have introduced additional security measures at their events in the past months.

In North America, the outlook is very positive: more than 8 companies out of 10 expect an increase in turnover for 2016 and the first half of 2017, and more than 50% of those polled declare an increase of more than 10 percent in annual profits for 2015 and 2016. Likewise, the U.K. - at the time of the survey, before the EU referendum - was expecting to perform in a positive way similar to North America and good perspectives also appeared in several other European markets. In Germany, however, less than half of the survey participants anticipate a growth for the first half of 2017 compared with a cyclically strong 2016. In Turkey, which also was surveyed before the recent coup attempt, significantly fewer companies report growing profits than in earlier UFI barometer surveys. The situation in Russia remains flat. In Central and South America, a majority of companies anticipate turnover decreases in 2016, but are more confident for the first half of 2017. Profits there also are expected to rise, with the notable exception of Brazil.

In Asia, as well as in the Middle East and Africa, 30-50% of survey participants on average declare an increase of more than 10% in annual profits for 2015 and 2016. The level is lower in China, where 20-30% of participants report such increases in annual profits. Twenty percent to 40% of those polled in Asia/Pacific, the Middle East or Africa report uncertainty regarding their turnover for the first half of 2017. The complete results of the Exhibition Barometer can be downloaded at <http://www.ufi.org/research>. ■ Source : <http://www.tsn.com>.

OBITUARY

Long-time UFI Managing Director, Mr. Vincent Gerard passes away

Mr. Vincent Gerard, long-time Managing Director of UFI (2001-2010), The Global Association of the Exhibition Industry, has passed away, following a battle with Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS).

Despite his health fading away, Mr. Vincent was following UFI and the industry all the time, and he stayed in touch with many friends from all over the world. Mr. Gerard, who was also an architect, began his career outside of the exhibition industry, working for the United Nations in Rwanda, Africa, where he constructed schools for several years. He then worked six years for Belgian contract contractors on projects in Africa and the Middle East. In 1986, he switched over to the exhibition industry, organizing for 15 years the international agriculture fair Agribex in Brussels, as well as matchmaking summits for industrial cooperation with several international institutions, including UNIDO (Vienna) and ESCAP (Bangkok). UFI recruited him in 2001, and he ran the association until 2010. During that time, he formulated a new strategic plan for the exhibition industry and grew UFI's presence worldwide.

Industry mourns former AEO Director, Mr. Brian Rusbridge

Mr. Brian Rusbridge, former AEO Director, passed away on 10 July, just short of his 94th birthday. An extremely popular leader of the AEO among members and the wider industry, he led the association during a challenging period of the 1990's and left the association in a strong position on his retirement in 1998. Mr. Trevor Foley, who took over from Brian as AEO director in 1998, said, "Brian was a true gentleman whom everyone associated with AEO hugely respected and liked immensely. After leaving the association, he always remained keenly interested in what was going on in the industry, he was never one to retire. Memories of Brian are lovely memories that will never fade. This is a sad day but also one to reflect on Brian's example of a very good way to lead one's life." ■

“Ripples - The Exhibition Industry in Transformation” in focus at 83rd UFI Congress

Small changes can have big impacts, and travel far and fast. In the past 25 years, the exhibition industry has benefitted from globalization; from markets and cultures opening up. Now, times are more complicated: digitization is changing businesses globally at an ever faster pace.

The political climate in vital global markets is also changing - stability is being replaced with uncertainties, ranging from political divisions to security matters. How to react to these ripples? How to ride the "waves of change" - to stay afloat at least, and better yet, benefit from it? From November 9-12, in Shanghai, UFI, hosted by SCEIA, the congress is all set to tackle the issues that define what's next for the industry. 600 fellow industry leaders from all around the globe would gather at this congress. ■

"Construction is in an exciting place, with many sectors seeing sustained growth and we will be reflecting that in the conference and exhibition," he added.

AIPC 2016 Annual Conference outcomes underline key issues

A wide range of speakers and sessions addressed the key issues of diversification and adaptation at the 2016 edition of the International Association of Convention Centres (AIPC) Annual Conference, held from 3rd to 6th July, 2016, in Nantes, France. The program brought together both industry expertise and a range of related speakers who collectively offered insights into both industry-specific topics as well as how other business sectors are dealing with similar issues in an effort to encourage the widest possible spectrum of thinking.

Global thought leaders looked at topics ranging from global economic transitions such as disruptive business practices, destination brand development and maintenance and emerging technology. Other sessions explored adjacent areas impacting centre business development, including an analysis of the critical accommodation sector as well as how the global exhibition business is evolving. One area receiving particular attention was that of managing the impacts of terrorist attacks on destination reputation and business prospects, which has become a key issue in the past few years, and this was addressed by a senior level panel of representatives from Brussels, Paris and Istanbul, all of whom have experienced direct impacts in recent months. A key outcome of the Conference was the awarding of the 2016 AIPC Apex Award for the "Best Client Rated Convention Centre". ■

Highways SIB (Seeing is Believing) to showcase 'inside-out' concept

Over 70% of the exhibition space at this year's Highways SIB (Seeing is Believing) event has been sold, according to the organizers. This brings one the 'inside-out' of the highways maintenance and traffic management world with both an indoor exhibition and outside demonstration zones. It provides the perfect showcase with its real road environments outside in all weather and lighting conditions. And this year they've taken their 'Inside-out' philosophy even further with the creation of a 'free to attend' integrated conference, workshops and roundtable discussions. The event is scheduled in Leicestershire, UK; 9-10 November, 2016. ■

IAEE and ESCA Support New Industry-Wide Security Initiative

The International Association of Exhibitions and Events™ (IAEE) announced its full support to provide industry guidelines and standards created by the industry, for the industry, to the Safety Act Office of the US Department of Homeland Security. The individual security efforts currently employed around the country have supported exhibitions and meetings for years. This industry has always focused on improving safety and security preparedness for our events. There is now a need for the industry to outline national standards that are in compliance with the Department of Homeland Security's Safety Act Office. This initiative will be facilitated by Keyway who has assembled a strong team of career law enforcement officials.

"The reason we are coming together now is to enhance what is already in place and to be proactive, instead of reactive, in the new reality of the world we live in today," said IAEE President and CEO, Mr. David DuBois, CMP, CAE, FASAE, CTA. "This initiative is unique and we are fully supporting it because a strategic alignment of industry guidelines with the federal government, specifically the Safety Act Office within the Department of Homeland Security, is needed to protect the industry in the event of a terror act." According to Mr. Kevin Olsen, Founding Partner of Keyway, "the current threat environment necessitates identifying industry best practices and developing a security standard for all venues that protects our human and economic resources, while providing the liability protections afforded by the federal government." ■

ABEC Exhibitions & Conferences Pvt. Ltd joins hands with Informa Exhibitions to launch Cityscape in India

ABEC Exhibitions & Conferences Pvt. Ltd (ABEC), a subsidiary of ITE Group and Informa Exhibitions has announced their partnership. Through this association ABEC and Informa Exhibitions will organize the first edition of Cityscape exhibition in India from 3-5 March, 2017 at the Bombay Exhibition Centre. The conglomeration is the latest addition to Cityscape's world renowned portfolio of events and is set to be a key meeting place for real estate developers, home buyers, private and institutional investors, architects and real estate professionals.

Cityscape India is poised to be the first Pan-India, real estate exhibition. The exhibition would be a pertinent platform for the leading developers from across the country to showcase their projects; it would also provide Middle East and international developers an opportunity to promote their projects directly to Indian investors and high net worth individuals.

As Cityscape prepares to make its debut on the Indian sub-continent, it does so at a time when the country's pro-market government is now one of the fastest growing major economies in the world, outranking China earlier this year. According to experts, the growth of the economy this year signifies India's position as one of the sole bright spots in a flailing global economy.■

Saudi Build Expo 2016 underpins Vision 2030

The Transformation Vision 2030 announced by Prince Muhammad bin Salman, Deputy Crown Prince and Second Deputy Premier and Minister of Defense of Saudi Arabia, emphasized the Kingdom's mission to achieve economic diversification and reduce reliance on oil through increasing support and investment in sectors such as health care, industry, transport, energy, education and real estate sector, to support sustainable economic growth.

Rapid preparations are under way to organize the 28th Saudi Build Exhibition that will be held from 17th to 20th October, 2016, at Riyadh International Convention and Exhibition Center, concurrently with the 19th Saudi International Stone & Stone Technology Exhibition, and the 7th International Exhibition for Construction Equipment, Plant, Machinery and Vehicles. Accredited by UFI, this provides a dedicated platform to showcase a wide range of opportunities for construction projects.■

Oman Convention Centre all set to open its doors

One of Muscat's most-awaited projects, the Oman Convention and Exhibition Centre's (OCEC's) phase one is to open its doors in mid-September. OCEC is set in its own purpose built precinct in Madinat Al Irfan, the new vibrant heart of Muscat, owned and developed by Omran, and is surrounded by a lush green nature reserve. The precinct will include four luxury hotels. Already in progress are the five-star JW Marriot, and the four-star Crowne Plaza, both of which are set to open in 2017. There will also be a 127,000 square metre shopping mall, which is being developed by Al Futtaim. A business park is also planned, as well as a variety of leisure offerings.

In its first year, OCEC will focus on supporting Oman's exhibition industry. Leveraging its 22,000 square metres of flexible exhibition space and its state-of-the-art facilities, OCEC will help local shows grow and achieve their full potential in the international arena. ■

Chitwan in Nepal to get industrial exhibition centre

Chitwan may have an international level industrial exhibition centre very soon, as per the 2073/75 budget announced by the Nepalese government a few days back. Industry Association Chitwan Chairperson, Mr. Bhim Bahadur Pande expects the facility to be a great help in marketing industrial products and encouraging further investment. "We have been calling for a centre like this for long, and are ecstatic about the prospect of this dream becoming a reality," he said and added, he foresees a boost in tourism in the district and the region as a whole from the proposed facility. He said, "Once the centre comes into operation, producers from all over the world will come here, which will of course give extra impetus to the tourism industry here."

According to the Exhibition Centre Construction Committee Coordinator and Nepal Udhog Parisangh Vice-chairperson, Mr. Krishna Prasad Adhikari, the estimated cost for construction of the centre is 250 million rupees. "Actually, we had sought 150 million rupees from the government for the project. The budget has allocated Rs 75 million and the Finance Minister has further pledged to manage the rest of the amount from other sources, which is good news," he said, adding the remaining Rs 100 million will be raised from donors, the Parisangh, industrialists, and entrepreneurs.

As per the plan, the project would be completed by the end of the next fiscal. The centre will spread over 51,000 square feet in Bharatpur, next to the Office of Cottage and Small Industry and will have the capacity to accommodate as many as 250 stalls.■

India planning record participation at food & beverage exhibition SIAL Paris

India is planning to mount a record participation at Salon International de l'Alimentation (SIAL) Paris 2016, the world's leading food and beverage exhibition, that will be held in Paris from 16-20 October 2016. More than 190 Indian exporters will be showcased in food and beverage products at the exhibition, with almost 150 participating under the India Pavilion organized by the India Trade Promotion Organisation (ITPO), a press release from the organisers, SIAL Network, said.

India will be amongst leading participations from Asia, alongside China, Korea and Japan. Over 1,500 Indian visitors, including a state-level delegation from Manipur, are expected to visit the exhibition to discover the latest in international food and beverage trends.

"The considerable increase in size of India's participation is an indicator of growth of the food processing industry and its allied sectors. The Indian food processing industry accounts for nine per cent of the manufacturing GDP of the country and I compliment the large contingent of Indian companies, including SMEs for featuring in India's export scenario," ITPO Chairman and Managing Director, Mr. L C Goyal said.

The release said the 2016 SIAL session is also set to be the largest in the exhibition's fifty year history, with 104 countries having confirmed their presence, and over 160,000 professionals from around the world expected to attend the five-day show.

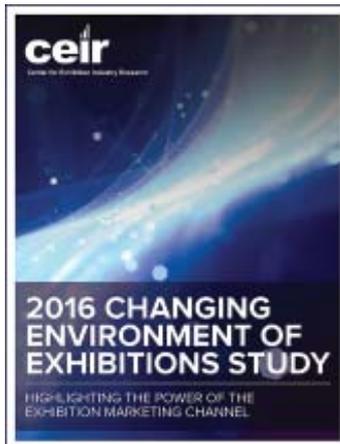

This year's SIAL Paris coincides with the United Nations' World Food Day. Representatives of the entire global food industry will therefore be in Paris on October 16, ready to find and share the solutions required to feed the world for the next 30 years. Arranged into food sectors and geographical regions, SIAL's one-of-a-kind layout lets visitors customize their experience, and explore the exhibition according to their own particular needs.

SIAL Network is the leading global network of shows dedicated to the food industry, with seven shows (SIAL Paris, SIAL Canada Montreal, SIAL Canada Toronto, SIAL China, SIAL Middle East, SIAL InterFOOD Jakarta, and SIAL ASEAN Manila) that bring together 14,000 exhibitors and 330,000 visitors from 194 countries. It is part of the Comexposium Group, one of the world's leading event organisers, which is involved in more than 170 B2C and B2B events across 11 different sectors, including food, agriculture, fashion, security, digital, construction, high-tech, optics and transport. ■

CEIR Releases two new reports in '2016 Changing Environment of Exhibitions Study'

The Center for Exhibition Industry Research (CEIR) has released two more reports from its newest series, 2016 Changing Environment of Exhibitions. This study consists of 10 fact sheets articulating the power of exhibitions from the perspective of exhibitors, including its most recent: Exhibitions Valued for Marketing to Hard-to-Reach Industry Sectors and Professionals and Factors that Drive the Decision to Exhibit. "The next two fact sheets continue to tell the story of the power of face-to-face marketing at exhibitions," said CEIR President and CEO, Mr. Brian Casey, CEM.

'Exhibitions Valued for Marketing to Hard-to-Reach Industry Sectors and Professionals' shows that roughly half of exhibiting companies face the major task of extensive marketing efforts to reach their target industry sectors or professionals. This report also reveals that companies with these challenges find business-to-business exhibitions highly valuable in helping them market to these audiences.

'Factors that Drive the Decision to Exhibit' reveals exhibitors are savvy and discriminating. They scrutinize different factors when determining whether to exhibit / expand participation or reduce/leave an event. Study findings suggest factors considered are essentially the same for either decision. An event's ability to deliver stellar performance on these top-ranked factors helps assure its stability and growth potential.

The second fact sheet is a reminder to organizers that their success is not guaranteed. Business-to-business exhibition organizers need to assure that each edition of their event delivers the specific value exhibitors are seeking. Keeping close to one's exhibitor base and evolving an event to their needs helps assure the stability and growth of an event.

The 2016 Changing Environment of Exhibitions study dives into the minds of executives who are involved in the decision to exhibit at business-to-business exhibitions, as well as other promotional and advertising decisions for their company. It documents the use of business-to-business exhibitions today, the level of participation now compared to several years ago as well as executives' plans to exhibit looking out to the next several years.

CEIR serves to advance the growth, awareness and value of exhibitions and other face-to-face marketing events by producing and delivering knowledge-based research tools that enable stakeholder organizations to enhance their ability to meet current and emerging customer needs, improve their business performance and strengthen their competitive position.■
